Interment of
W. A. Wilson

The interment of W. A. Wilson, whose death we reported in our last issue, took place on Saturday morning last. The funeral service which was conducted by the Rev. J. P. Dingle, at the Church of the Ascension, was of a most impressive character. At the close of the service the rev. gentleman made a few well chosen remarks as to the life and character of the deceased as being of the highest order and who had borne his long illness with great fortitude and resignation. The deceased was son of the Rev. W. Wilson, and was born at Tilvia, Baa, Fiji Islands, S.P., Dec. 1856. The remains were conveyed to the local cemetery where the last portion of the service was gone through at the grave site.

The following acted as pall-bearers S. Collins, E. S. McIntyre, J. Cawender, W. Wolledge, J. Belshaw and R. Whitfield.

A number of residents attended the service as a mark of respect. Mrs. M. Thomas officiated on the organ.

Christmas Romance

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

Me preparing for Christmas—me. Goodness knows I wish I was. Christmas doing ain't for me no more. And just because I was a-baking something to eat to-morrow, which happens to be Christmas, she thought I was preparing for that day a special.

Betty Green signed as she placed the pie in the oven, and pulled a kitchen chair up beside the stove. The new neighbor, who had just moved into the town, and who knew nothing of Betty's history, had just left. With the Christmas spirit everywhere she had thought of course Betty was preparing a feast for the day.

"Now, if Jim hadn't never sailed away on that water-logged old Mary Ann, as he did a-going on four year ago, I guess I could a been preparing for Christmas like other folks. Jim and me could of enjoyed Christmas, and then maybe there'd a been some body else—somebody what just about now would a been liking dolls or tin cars, and if so Jim and me would a been having a Christmas tree for that somebody, and we'd a been having the best Christmas in all South Cove."

"My, how I did try to keep Jim from sailing in that Mary Ann. Anybody what knew anything about ships knew Jim wasn't fit to go to sea in, but Jim says it's he only berth he's likely to get, and I would bring about my marrying just that much sooner, and the Mary Ann."

for Jim ain't never been heard of since she left that South American place to round the Horn on her way to China."

The bright eyes of Betty Green were wet with tears as she opened the oven door to raise the pie to a higher shelf. Ever since Jim Busby failed to return in time for the wedding which Betty had so carefully prepared for four years ago—a wedding which was to be the big event of the Christmas season at South Cove—she had had a long, lonely life.

Two months after the Christmas that was to have been Betty's wedding day her aged father had been carried to the village cemetery, leaving her alone in the world. With no other relatives, and with no funds except those at South Cove Betty remained in the little fishing town in which she had been born nearly twenty-seven years ago.

With the baking finished, Betty left the kitchen and went into her bedroom. She wanted nothing so much as to be alone in that room that had been her father's—in that room where she kept carefully preserved the wedding clothes she had lavished so much care upon four years ago. These clothes and the faded photograph of Jim Busby on her bureau were all that were left her of her romance. With these she would spend her Christmas, and with no funds except those at South Cove Betty remained in the little fishing town in which she had been born nearly twenty-seven years ago.

With care she took each garment from its wrappings in the bureau drawer and spread them on the bed. The pretty wedding dress which Sarah Glover had helped her make—yes, she had planned to four years ago. Jim would like her to do that; he had always like to see her prettily dressed, and maybe Jim might see her from the spirit world tonight. As she fastened the gown she almost forgot that Jim could not be there, that it was all a make-believe. As she stood before the mirror the smile of four years ago came back again. She noted the color in her cheeks. It was like a bride's blush.

A rap at the door dispelled the illusion she had permitted herself to a few moments. She could not go to the door in that dress. The caller would have to wait, but he did not wait. She heard the door swing, a heavy step on the floor, and a voice—such a familiar voice—calling Betty.

"Jim! My Jim!" she answered, as she pulled open the door of her bedroom and sprang into the arms of a strong, bronzed sailor.

Pat into the night she listened to Jim's tale of shipwreck on the Patagonian coast, of the months and years of practical captivity before he could get back to a seaport.

"And now," he said, "I am home to claim my Christmas bride."

"And I save our Christmas baking done," said Betty.

MARKETING—The handling and sale of your product—securing the highest price under all conditions—that too is a doorway to success.

BUYING also is important. To know where and how to buy is the basis of successful merchandising and the farmer is a merchant as well as a farmer.

CROSSFIELD, ALTA., JAN. 12, 1917.

The Bacon Hog A Great Opportunity

From 1904 to 1914 Canada's export with Britain in hog products decreased and Denmark's increased. From 1914 Canada's export bacon trade has increased and Denmark's has gone the other way, showing a falling off of 73,000,000 pounds. For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, Canada's export of hog products totalled 25,020,861, pounds for 1915 the total was 72,030,225 pounds and for 1916, 144,160,300 pounds. The United States experienced a like increase. But so far as Canada is concerned, there is another side to the shield. On June 30, 1916, there were fewer hogs in this country than at any time during the previous ten years, and from 1914 to 1916 there was a decrease of one million. This serious state of affairs, as well as the opportunity that is before the country, is concisely and vividly pointed out in Pamphlet No. 21 of the Live Stock Department at Ottawa, entitled "The Bacon Hog and the British Market, for which Messrs. John Bright, Live Stock Commissioner, and H. S. Arkell, Assistant Commissioner, are jointly responsible, and which can be had free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Particularly unfortunate, says the pamphlet, is the decrease in the face of the rare opportunity that is offered to the farmer to take the "British side" trade with the British market, a trade that for the year 1915 amounted in value to $15,957,052. In view of the facts here set forth it is hardly necessary to further ruder to the gravity of the situation or to the opportunity that will be lost if our farmers and breeders do not bestir themselves. The joint authors point out that while we are not for specified reasons to occupy the market for fat hogs, that for the bacon hog is ours for the asking. They also call for regularly for six months in the year and then go out of it for six months without having a general average of price that is unprofitable both to producer and packer. "A good crop of hogs is required each month of the year. "If each farmer," the pamphlet says in conclusion, "maintains even one or, at most two sows and manages these and their offspring properly, there can be built up in Canada a very important and remunerative industry, not only yielding a permanent profit to the farmer, but as well materially assisting in preserving the commercial stability of the Dominion."

Mr. Smoker a Word Please

We are asked to start a Subscription list at our office for the purpose of raising funds to purchase tobacco for the Canadian soldiers at the front who are greatly in need of it.

The money will be sent to the Calgary Herald Tobacco Fund, and the names of those donating will be published in both The Chronicle and the Calgary Herald and a post card addressed to you is enclosed in every 25c package you subscribe for, which enables the happy soldier who receives your gift to write and thank you personally when he can do so.

More than 25,000 packages have already been sent through this fund but the work is only just beginning and more assistance is needed. Just think of the pleasure it will be to some fellow in the trenches without the wherewithal to get a smoke, and no chance to buy it, and someone comes along and hands him a neat little packet of tobacco. Subscription list at the Chronicle office. Come in and put down a quarter, you'll enjoy your next smoke better after doing it.
